

Self-Defence Against Non-State Actors: Impulses from the Max Planck Trialogues on the Law of Peace and War

	Seite
A. Peters/C. Marxsen : Editors' Introduction: Self-Defence in Times of Transition	3
Restrictivist Positions
O. Corten : Has Practice Led to an "Agreement Between the Parties" Regarding the Interpretation of Article 51 of the UN Charter?	15
T. Christakis : Challenging the "Unwilling or Unable" Test	19
I. Österdahl : Scarcely Reconcilable with the UN Charter	23
S. Kawagishi : Clearing Uncertainties of the Jurisprudence of the ICJ on Self-Defence Against Non-State Actors	27
P. Urs : Effective Territorial Control by Non-State Armed Groups and the Right of Self-Defence	31
L. Lo Giacco : Reconsidering the Legal Basis for Military Actions Against Non-State Actors	35
B. Sjöstedt : Applying the Unable/Unwilling State Doctrine – Can a State Be Unable to Take Action?	39
M. Hartwig : Which State's Territory May Be Used for Self-Defence Against Non-State Actors?	43

Expansionist Positions

J. A. Frowein: Article 51 and the Realities of the Present Day World 47

K. Oellers-Frahm: Article 51 – What Matters Is the Armed Attack, not the Attacker 49

I. Couzidou: The Right to Self-Defence Against Non-State Actors – Criteria of the “Unwilling or Unable” Test 53

G. Keinan: Humanising the Right of Self-Defence 57

C. J. Tams: Embracing the Uncertainty of Old: Armed Attacks by Non-State Actors Prior to 9/11 61

Conceptual Alternatives

L. van den Herik: “Proceduralising” Article 51 65

A. Tancredi: Doctrinal Alternatives to Self-Defence Against Non-State Actors 69

Meta-Questions

M. Wood: Self-Defence Against Non-State Actors – A Practitioner’s View 75

L. Grover: Intertemporality and Self-Defence Against Non-State Actors 79

C.-P. Sassenrath: Diverging Interpretations of Individual State Practice on Self-Defence Against Non-State Actors – Considerations for a Methodological Approach 83

P. Starski: A Call for a Turn to the Meta-Level of International Law: Silence, the “Interregnum”, and the Conundrum of Ius Cogens 87

C. Marxsen: A Note on Indeterminacy of the Law on Self-Defence Against Non-State Actors 91