

Intervention by Invitation: Impulses from the Max Planck Trialogues on the Law of Peace and War

|  | Page |
|--|------|
| A. Peters : Intervention by Invitation: Impulses from the Max Planck Trialogues on the Law of Peace and War – Introduction                    | 635  |
| Terminology, Methods, and Principles  |      |
| F. Kriener : Invitation – Excluding ab initio a Breach of Art. 2 (4) UNCh or a Preclusion of Wrongfulness?                             | 643  |
| A. Kleczkowska : The Misconception About the Term “Intervention by Invitation”  | 647  |
| L. Visser : What’s in a Name? The Terminology of Intervention by Invitation   | 651  |
| M. Wood : Assessing Practice on the Use of Force  | 655  |
| A. Tancredi : A “Principle-Based” Approach to Intervention by Invitation in Civil Wars  | 659  |
| The Authority to Invite: Questioning Consent  |      |
| L. Lo Giacco : “Intervention by Invitation” and the Construction of the Authority of the Effective Control Test in Legal Argumentation | 663  |
| E. Lieblich : The International Wrongfulness of Unlawful Consensual Interventions   | 667  |
| A. Wentker : Purpose-Based Regulation of Consent to Non-Forcible Operations   | 671  |

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| The Purposes and Functions of Intervention Positions  |     |
| O. Corten: Is an Intervention at the Request of a Government Always Allowed? From a “Purpose-Based Approach” to the Respect of Self-Determination | 677 |
| V. Bílková: Reflections on the Purpose-Based Approach   | 681 |
| A. Skordas: Intervention by Invitation and Its Function: Governance in a Plural Society   | 685 |
| Multiple Grounds for Intervening Alternatives   |     |
| D. Kritsiotis: On the Matter of Multiple Legal Justifications for Military Action   | 691 |
| I. Couzigou: Respect for State Sovereignty: Primacy of Intervention by Invitation over the Right to Self-Defence                                  | 695 |
| The Role of the Security Council  |     |
| I. Österdahl: The Gentle Legitimiser of the Action of Others  | 699 |
| M. Hartwig: Who Is the Host? Invasion by Invitation   | 703 |
| L. van den Herik: Replicating Article 51: A Reporting Requirement for Consent-Based Use of Force?   | 707 |